Seniors Wills . . . Remembering

The following Seniors, being of sound minds and bodies, do hereby will the following to those listed:

Jamie Abner: My ability to pilot a two wheel drive vehicle to the most bizarre places around, to Ernie Dufseth and Kevin Binkley.

Max Addler: The coveted gold towel, to Jay Ross.

Tammy Bauman: My shopping money, to Jeremy Corner, so he can have a headstart to save up for that hot rust mobile, and then some day visit and win at B.I.R. — Good luck!

Jeremy Bennett: My incredible 3-point percentage, to Chad Adams, and my "winterized" Neumanns, to Peter Houseman, so he can catch the ball in the cold.

Heather Bergin: My ability to persuade teachers to change test dates, to any underclassman who needs it.

Laura Berglund: My ability to drive a stick shift, to Abe Asfoor, and my ability not to get stuck when we go mudding, to David Pater.

Robert Braford: My ability to have fun when fun is needed, to Luke Braford and Paul Scheldrup.

Cheyenne Carlson: My smile, to Monica Schram, because it's not always what it seems to be.

Vicky Carlson: My ability to look as if the next person who crosses my path is dead meat, to Bergetta Diatal, so she won't be bugged before she has her morning caffeine either.

Steph Charlton: My ability to wave my arms and bounce while I'm standing in front of the pep band, to Amarie Sunde, since she admires it so much.

Laurie Clayton: My Pinto to Jesse and Brian, in hopes they have better luck with it than I did. To Kari, my ability to get dragged through the woods by a cow.

Jason Cluff: My demo car driving ability, to Shawn Knutson, and to Cory Fellows, my ability to sticker plywood without getting slivers in his hands. Good luck!

Edda Coordes: My knowledge of a foreign language, to Tiffany Gross (my host sister), so she will get as good of grades in German, as I did in English.

Todd Cope: My ability to graduate to John Balderston and my brain to Tommy Kuhlman, so he too can graduate.

Mike Davis: My attitude to Monica Schram and Amanda Stenson, my body to Sarah Holloway and Heather Bjerckness because they want it, and my ability to get out of trouble to Bryce Robertson.

Matthew Dean: My ability to drive during lunch hour and not get caught, to Justin Dean.

Teresa Efta: My ability to stay out late without getting in trouble, to Shelly Solberg.

Steph Eisenrich: My ability to be a hero, to Kim Sandbo, and to any future one act play crew member, my ability to manage gun shots and train whistles without ducks quacking.

Brenda Erpelding: My ability to doze off in the outfield and wake up in time to make the play, to Jessica Hanson.

Ryan Fellows: My mop so he can clean up his mess that he left in the driveway, to Brian Krueger.

Monica Fenner: My ability to stay out late, but always come up with a believable excuse, to Misty Larsen.

Jerald Ferdig: My ability to go on camping trips and still be able to work in the next morning, to Renee and Brandon Ferdig.

Joanna Fowler: My ability to get four hours of sleep each night and still function, to Monica Schram.

Kacie Frenzel: My old gray beater, to Carmen and Ginger, so that they may go cruising to who knows where and only they will know what might have happened then.

Carl Freyholtz: My ability to not do my homework the night before and still manage to have it all done by class time, to John Horton.

Mike Freyholtz: My Olympic D. H. Medalist skiing ability, to any other Olympic D. H. Medalist.

Leo Gross: My ability to crash my four-wheeler and car, and survive, to Kurt Gross.

Joan Lahr: My ability to stay calm and keep a great sense of humor when in BIG trouble, to Sandra and Amanda; and to Jeff, my ability to drive a four-wheeler and not kill myself.

Nate Lien: My truck, to Abe Asfoor and Greg Moon, so they too can get buried deep in Abe's "backyard."

Deanna Long: My membership in the DDPC club and my ability to sleep in class without getting in trouble, to Rachel Bauer.

Gary Lundburg: My ability to get away with anything, to Kevin Forseen.

Lisa Mystic: My ability to drive a car in the "jungle" without ripping the bottom of the car out, to Dana Drauden.

Those We've Left Behind

Allyson Moe: My ability to put up with Kenny's comments and Kurt's sassy attitude while playing football, to Crystal Dancker and Tiffany Miller.

Jeromy Moline: My ability to come into school late and not have to get a pass, to Grant Moline.

Chris Nord: My ability to wrestle without cutting weight, to Jay R. and Eric N., my ability to play drums, to Ryan N. (even though he is already better than me), and my ability to call defensive plays on the field, to Brian K.

Susan Oestreich: My ability to convince her parents to let her go to AJs, to Amarie Sunde, and to Janel and Amarie my car, to terrorize people during noon hour.

Kendall Owen: My ability to skip school and not get caught, to John Ross.

Shawna Patch: My blond hair, to Sarah Holloway, so she can be natural, and my ability to flirt, to Heather Bjerkness, even though she doesn't need it."

Brian Pater: My ability to cause trouble in class without getting kicked out, to David Pater.

Julie Pater: My ability to stay out of trouble in school, to David Pater.

Todd "Bubba" Patterson: My nicknames "Z-Leader" and "Little Pig", to any football lineman who wants them.

Maria Peasley: My ability to convince my parents to let me do anything I want, to Derek Bohan.

Tara Pettis: My lifetime supply of pretzels and mustard to Doug Juelson and Kari Clayton so they won't go hungry on those lonely nights while waiting for someone to take them home.

Laura Reisch: My ability to take 17 pictures of the same person and get them all into the yearbook, to Greg Martin.

Tammy Reisch: My ability to come home late with a convincing story about my night out, to Tab Carrigan.

Kerry Richmond: My great driving abilities, but just remember, cars are a dime a dozen, to Brandi and Bobbie Jo.

Heather Robertson: My ability to make it through fall homecoming without having a nervous breakdown, developing an ulcer, committing suicide, or attempting murder, to cheerleaders Monica Schram and Renee Ferdig.

Mandy Schram: My combat boots and bell-bottoms since I know how much they love them, to Misty Larsen, Kari Clayton, and Melanie Landis.

Bryan Shastid: My ability to play the tuba and get along with the teacher, to James Newman.

Jason Solberg: My abilities to get into trouble and talk my way out of it and not get caught by Granger "yet", to Shawn Knutson.

Matt Swedberg: My ability to stay out of trouble and never lie to my parents, to Kevin Forseen.

Mike Swedberg: My lawnmowing business, to Ronn Rockensock.

Casey Tisland: My ability to have many adventurous nights (like the ones about BUNS OF STEEL) and have a blast while doing those crazy things, to Ginger and Carmen.

Karen Tjepkes: My ability to roll the car and not get grounded for life, to Craig Tjepkes.

Alethea Townsend: My ability to grin and bear it, to Heather.

Chris Waller: My ability to say stupid things and still get people to laugh, to Caleb Waller, and my left arm to Heather Bjerkness because she wants it.

Cindi Wernberg: My ability to understand and cooperate fully with older students, to Chad Olson, so that when he becomes a senior, seventh graders will respect him.

Melissa Wilcowski: My ability to stay happy during school and not let anyone ruin your days, to Tara Kuhlman.

Sheree Williams: My ability to go out, do absolutely nothing, and still have a blast, to Misty Larsen and Tonelle Sutton, (hopefully, their car lights won't go out on them.)

Jenna Asfoor and Deanna Long: Our membership to the DDPC club, to Rachel Bauer and Sarah Gross.

Senior Parliamentary Team members: Our ability to read Robert's Rules of Order and enjoy it, to all future Parliamentary members.

S. Oestrich and J. Lahr figure that chewing burns all those calories.

A. T. Pettis takes time out from checking the BOD's to smile for the camera. B. J. Fowler belts it while L. Reisch, A. Erholtz, and S. Pomp, and V. Carlson try to keep from cringing. C. S. Nolden prays to the locker god? D. J. Osufsen practices his Mr. America wave. E. R. Fellows gets a caffeine kick in the morning. F. R. Braford, What about Bob? G. M. Addler, N. Lien, and C. Nord — the only turkeys they could find were plastic? H. L. Berglund tells J. Asfor about flower power, M. Addler takes notes on it and J. Bennett thinks about it.

A Mix Of Cultures

Edda From Germany Adds To Ours This Year

This year Blackduck's foreign exchange student is Edda Coordes. She is seventeen years old and was born on December 17, 1975. Besides her parents back in Germany, Edda has one older married sister.

Edda is from Norden, Germany which even though it's about the same size as Blackduck, their school is different from ours in many ways. The tests are not true/false, there is not multiple choice — only essay questions, and they take only 1 to 3 tests per semester for every subject. They also have to take two foreign languages. English is required and the students have a choice of French, Latin, Russian, and later in school, Greek. Edda became a foreign exchange student because she likes studying foreign languages, plus she has always wanted to come to America.

In Germany, they don't have any extracurricular activities, but students must belong to clubs outside of school where they have to pay fees. School is from 7:50 A.M. to 1:00 P.M. with no hot lunch served. Every day they have different classes in a different order. There are no school buses, students ride public transportation free until 11th grade.

She also likes American TV, movies (especially science fiction), and rock musical American artists Genesis, Whitney Houston, Mariah Carey, and Meat Loaf. Her favorite food is Italian, including Pizza and spaghetti. She especially likes our special events here like Prom, Homecoming, Concerts, etc. Some of the social events in Germany are going to the movies, class parties, and they have dances like the Prom, but they are only for seniors. These dances are called, "Abslupball."

In Germany Edda likes rock stars "Diefaustastischen Vier" and "Guuchenr Freiheit," classic music, classic rock, and musicals. The weather in Norden is similar to Blackduck's except it gets colder here!

Edda added a lot to our German classes and to our understanding of another culture. Thanks Edda!

"Teacher of the Year"

This year's "Teacher of the Year" is Mary Lea Anderson. Mrs. Anderson teaches Physical Education. She chose this as her major because she has "always liked activity and enjoys the competition of all sports." Mrs. Anderson graduated from Chaska High School. She later graduated from Bemidji State University where she has also earned 63 graduate credits. She has taught in Blackduck since August, 1970. Some highlights of her teaching years are starting the girls sports program in 1973 and developing life-long friendships with students.

Mrs. Anderson and her husband, Scott, have been friends since their freshman year in high school. They were married in August of 1970. They have two boys, Lance, who is 16 and a sophomore, and Jay who is 13 and in seventh grade.

Mrs. Anderson is involved in many extracurricular activities. She is the coach for the Junior Varsity volleyball, co-facilitator of the Site-base Team, Youth Development coordinator, volunteer weight room supervisor, and P.O.P.S. Committee member. She has been instrumental in bringing C.A.R.E. and P.O.P.S. to Blackduck. When asked why she thought these were worth her time she said, "I feel all of these are part of the solution. I try not to dwell on the problems, but to put my energy into the solutions." Mrs. Anderson has showed her school/community spirit in many other ways as she has been a youth group advisor, Sunday School teacher, cheerleader advisor, Summer Recreation supervisor, Summer Baseball coach and Baseball Board member. She has also coached basketball, and track and field.

Mrs. Anderson's "wish list" for our school district is that the school be full of posters, banners, floor mats, wall mats, etc. promoting a chemically free lifestyle. Everywhere people would look, there would be positive messages! She would like for such statements as "this is boring," "I can't," or "this is stupid" not to be used. She wishes that all students would be involved in some type of extracurricular activity and work to their full capacity in all academic classes.

When asked how she felt about being chosen as "Teacher of the Year" Mrs. Anderson said, "It was an honor." She feels the roles of teachers are to guide, encourage, commend, direct, advise, and challenge the students. Her goal as a teacher is "to do the best possible job I can every day." Congratulations, Mrs. Anderson on an honor well deserved.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

In any direction you look, you can always see a mix of grades. Here we have freshman C. McNamara, and eighth graders M. Meade and T. Bechtold.

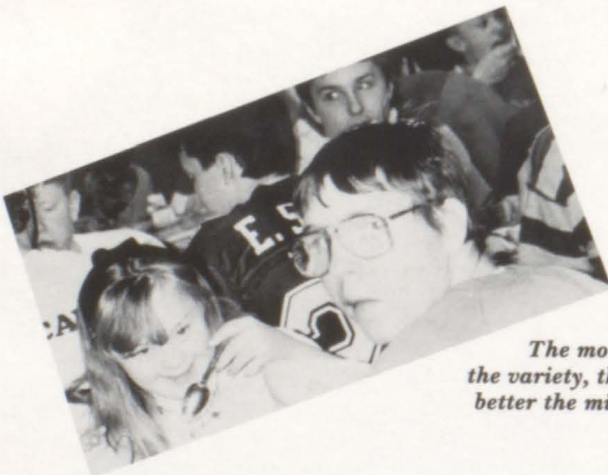

Like many of us, J. Bennett is not only academically inclined, but also involved in many extra-curricular activities.

For Snow Week this year, BHS students represented a mix of countries. No one showed more spirit than the juniors with their hand painted t-shirts.

The yearbook staff this year represented a wide variety of BHS students.

The more the variety, the better the mix!

Many students, including J. Knutson, mix work with school.

J. Gross, N. Bennett, and P. Sorquist enjoy a truly perfect mix . . . Monster Cookies!

The Perfect Mix

Say Good-bye to the "old gym." Next year it will be our new K-12 Media Center.

Getting ready to be moved into, the new school is going up!

M. Schram and G. Martin usually have a wide mix of opinions between them.

Ms. Rivard and Mr. Fenske did a little mixing of their own . . . they got married!

"The Perfect Mix" was the theme chosen for this year's yearbook for lots of reasons! We looked around the school and noticed the variety of people within our student population. We saw the new school starting to blend with the old school. With all the mixing of paint, colors, and people, we thought, "Hey, we've got the perfect mix going here!"

With the old school going down and the new school going up, we got all mixed up in the hallways. Old halls were blocked off, and new halls weren't quite opened yet. A mix of new and old faces including construction workers were around. A mix of sounds and odors filled rooms as these construction workers did their things and we confronted a variety of temperatures in the classrooms! (The science rooms hit 87 degrees many days!)

Being in a smaller school, students can participate in many extra-curricular activities. A variety of after school interests kept us busy at nights, sometimes so busy we came to school with a wide range of enthusiasms. We've always been a mix of personalities, tastes, styles, interests, and activities. This year we added a few new organizations (Peer Tutoring, and a spring play) to keep us even more busy.

We really do have the perfect mix going here at Blackduck High.

Cartoon News of '93-'94

by Jeramie Pilecki

Of course lots of things happened over this year, but we only have room for a few of the headlines: #1) The Brady Bill limited the purchasing of hand guns so that people wanting to buy a gun must register five days before actually purchasing the weapon. #2) The Winter Olympics was preceded by weeks of controversy concerning the attack on U.S. figure skater Nancy Kerrigan. Another figure skater, Tonya Harding, came under attack by the press for her body guard's and ex-husband's admission to the dirty deed. #3) The Los Angeles earthquake shook up Californians! #4) The Dallas Cowboys triumphed over the Buffalo Bills in the Super Bowl. #5) 1993's summer rains, brought terrible floods throughout the Mississippi River Valley.

Chemicals Aren't Right for Extracurriculars is a program focused on student commitments to remain drug, tobacco, and alcohol free. The C.A.R.E. Core Group is in charge of planning meetings, activities, and being there for students to talk to. This year some changes were made in how C.A.R.E. works. Students were only given one week to sign a contract along with a short questionnaire. C.A.R.E. is being student run this year instead of by an advisor. Also, the emphasis on punishment was changed to encouragement, allowing students the opportunity to try again. C.A.R.E. has also changed their open gyms to include those who have remained chemically free that night, not just those who have signed a contract. This change was made to provide a chemically free night to a larger group of students. C.A.R.E. has sponsored or helped sponsor many special activities including: Peer Tutoring, trips to Buena Vista, a Gophers game, a Twins game, and a BSU Hockey game, open gyms after home games, a P.O.P.S. assembly, a Benefit Quilt Raffle for Scott Poxleitner, and the Chemical Use Prevention and Intervention Counselor.

Juniors show their spirit by wearing Kick'n Kenya T-shirts for Represent Your Country Day.

Student Council members put together a very successful Snow Week 1994. The week included Silk Shirt and Boxer Shorts Day, Winter Wear Day, Tie, Hat and Paint Your Nose Day, and 50's and 60's Day. In honor of the 1994 Winter Olympics being held the following week, Friday was Represent Your Country Day, and the Junior Class wowed everyone with specially made T-shirts declaring "Kickin' Kenya" as their country.

As Olympic competition was held with the Junior High grades competing against each other and the Senior High grades challenging one another. The faculty valiantly struggled in both categories. Winners of gold medals were the Freshmen and Seniors.

Basketball games and wrestling matches were held throughout the week, Senior Candidates performed skits at a pep fest, and Friday night the new King and Queen were crowned with a dance following, completing a very busy and fun week!

T. Pettis and M. Davis perform "Beevis and Butthead and Cher (?)" for their candidate skit.

Fall Homecoming 1993

Skit members act out "The Good Old Days."

V. Carlson and N. Deno sing "I've Had the Time of My Life."

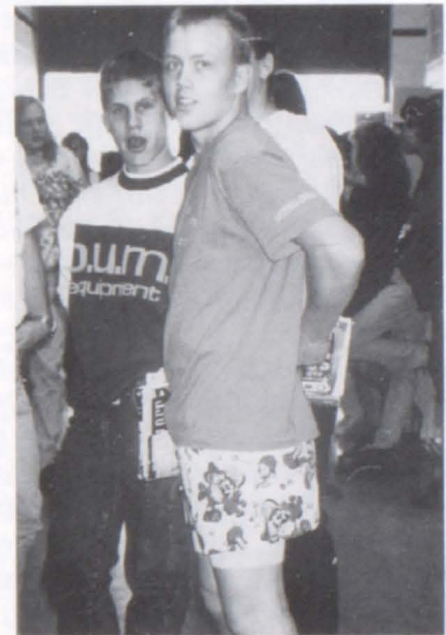

H. Tobin dresses like her parents used to.

J. Bennett, C. Nord and J. Reiplinger in "Aladdin."

The football cheerleaders spent a lot of time organizing Fall Homecoming 1993 and with great results! The week included Boxer Shorts and Cartoon T-shirts Day, Dick Tracy Day, Dressing Like Your Parents Used To Day, and Class Spirit Day. The Senior Candidates performed skits and afterwards the school voted for their new King and Queen. After a busy week, the Drakes football team defeated the Walker Wolves and the dance that followed proved to be the perfect ending of Homecoming '93.

J. Yerbich is awed by C. Nord's display of his boxers.

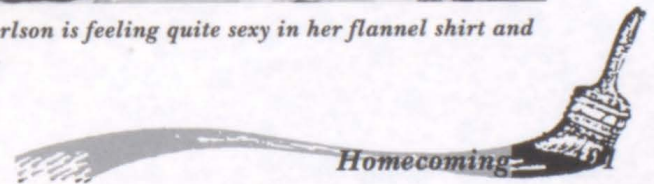

L. Anderson looking sinister in his leather jacket and hat.

A. Mabb portrays her image of Dick Tracy.

V. Carlson is feeling quite sexy in her flannel shirt and boots.

T. Pettis and K. Clayton both experience a bad hair day or maybe they're just burned out from doing yearbook pages.

J. Ferdig uses the whiteout to make himself look busy, but we really know the truth.

"Like the yearbook or I'll shoot!" warns J. Pilecki (with a fake gun).

A special thanks to Jim Nissen for creating our theme's artwork!
